The geographic area of Central-Europe, where Friuli Venezia Giulia and other Regions and States participating this conference are located, represents communities where, in the past centuries, were promoted negotiations, mediation and collaborations between different peoples and cultures. This geographic area has in common many problems but also many positive experiences that involve and combine about 36 million inhabitants.

This population together may influence in a relevant way the decision-making at European Union level.

On these assumptions European projects represent an “added value”, the planning and social cross-border health cooperation, as part of the “Global Health Diplomacy”, may facilitate the cooperation between several subjects and realities of different States encouraging the development of diplomatic and economic relations.

The Friuli Venezia Giulia Regional Law n.22 of 14 November 2014 on “The Promotion of Active Ageing” aims to work on coordinated and integrated actions in favor of the elderly in several areas of intervention such as: social tourism, transport, health and wellness.

The Friuli Venezia Giulia Region as Reference Site of European Innovation Partnership on Active and Healthy Ageing (EIP on AHA) participated to the Reference Sites awards in Brussels, in December 2016, and works actively at European level in the commitment of local and regional organizations, stakeholders and industries working to connect health and care for the ageing population.

The Local Health Authority n.2 “Bassa Friulana, Isontina” (AAS2) is a member of EIP on AHA and participates in two commitments. Moreover, the AAS2 is partner of the European Grouping of Territorial Cooperation GECT GO with Slovenian partners.

The conference can be a good opportunity to discuss with the neighboring regions and the ones belonging to the Central European Area about the international tourist mobility, the impact that tourist flows may have on health services of host sites (emergencies, necessary medical treatments, rehabilitation, medical wellness, prevention, etc.).

To succeed in combining the health excellence with medical wellness and with the domestic and foreign tourism would give the possibility to achieve an integrated care system enhancing the possible synergies between entities belonging to different states and different sectors.

An integrated system like this could become a best practice in other European Regions.

The participation is free of charge
